Israel is the only country in the world where 18-year-old girls are drafted for compulsory military service. In this award-winning documentary, the frank testimonials of six female Israeli soldiers stationed in Gaza and the West Bank packs a powerful emotional punch.

The young women revisit their tours of duty with surprising honesty and strip bare stereotypes of gender differences in the military. The former soldiers share intimate and powerful moments of as they describe events they witnessed and participated in. The psychological transformation that these young women underwent as a result of military service is riveting.
